

SINGER CLUB TRIMS FAST KAZOO TEAM BY 5 TO 2 SCORE

Henning Fans 12 Visitors and Bags Four Hits for Afternoon's Work.

With the aid of superb pitching by "Pete" Henning the Singer club registered a well earned victory over their jinx team the Kalamazoo Elks by the score of 5 to 2 yesterday afternoon at Singer park, before a large crowd of fans.

The Kazoo hitters were at a loss to solve the barrage of fast ones, slow ones and hooks served up by Henning and the game developed into just a question of the Singer hitters gathering a few runs. Henning continued his terrific clutching by bagging four safe avails in as many appearances at the plate.

Both of the Kazoo runs were present. The first they scored on an over throw of third base. This in the third inning. The other they scored on a scratch hit to short. On both occasions the side should have been retired without a run.

The locals took the lead in the second inning when Claffey hit over second base. He moved up to second and scored on a high fly by Henning that fell in safe territory back of third. In the next frame the Singers scored again when Wolf stroked, Shinski hit safe and both scored when Baker slammed a double to left center. Another came in the fourth when Moffatt got a lie on an error, went to third on Henning's long double and scored on Wolf's sacrifice fly to short left. The final tally came in the seventh. Kading doubled to left and came in on Claffey's second hit of the afternoon.

Though the locals won the game decisively the Kazooes were dangerous on one or two occasions. Henning, however, took care of the hitters with men on the paths. He allowed only eight hits. Two of three of these were of the scratch variety. He struck out 12 and grabbed four hits himself. A fair afternoon's work.

The Singer club looked good most of the fray. Touby continued his fast work around the hot corner and Kading handled several difficult plays at first.

Next Sunday the Singer club will have a battle with the Palmyra Moose club of Three Rivers. The parties copied the decision on their part appearance in the local yard and since that time have strengthened their club, both in the infield and outfield.

His appearance during Sunday afternoon's game in the coaching box along first base line, the first intimation the fans had he signed, caused a demonstration.

Roush's agreement with the club covers only the balance of the present season. His contract, which will be signed Monday, will extend only until October 1, 1922, leaving him free to open new negotiations with the club for next season.

Coach University Stars Into Major League Material

Veterans Develop College Diamond Youngsters for Big League Teams.

BY HILLY EVANS.
The curtain has been rung down on college baseball for the season of 1922.

The standard of play on the collegiate ranks throughout the country was exceptionally high. With the players who have graduated are about to seek new fields to conquer by entering the professional ranks.

Some 50 college ball players have been signed by the majors and minors of a higher classification. In all probability a "hundred" more "Baby Ruth" stars will be given a chance to show their worth in the smaller minor leagues.

College baseball has offered a new field for the veteran professional players. Big league stars, possessing the ability to impart their knowledge to the collegians have no trouble finding lucrative positions when their playing days are over.

No one thing has done more to improve the play in college baseball than the efficient coaching that is now in vogue at many of the leading institutions.

Tesreau a Fixture.
Jack Barry, former star of the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox, coaches Holy Cross. Barry turned out a great team as usual. Three or four of his players are sure of major league trials if they care to accept them.

Jeff Tesreau, former star pitcher of the New York Giants, is still at Dartmouth. Tesreau has coached the Hanover institution for several years and seems to be a fixture on the athletic faculty.

Jack Combs, who won fame with the Athletics, is coaching at Williams. Combs is one of the few players who came direct from college to the majors and made good. He started at Colby before Jack picked him as worthy of a trial.

Carl Lundgren, former pitcher star of the Chicago Cubs, is having his usual success at Illinois. He has again annexed the "Big Ten" baseball championship.

Thirty in Role.
Ray Fisher, the old New York pitcher, is at Michigan. Bill Coughlin, who once starred at third for the Detroit Tigers, is the Lafayette coach. Jack Shattley is at Harvard.

About 30 former major league stars who have passed their usefulness as active players in the big show are now doing very well in the role of college coaches.

These players know baseball. They drill the scientific end of the game into the varsity candidates. As a result most of the college teams play "heads up" baseball. The college player who comes to the big league for a trial today is far better equipped mentally than the student of 10 years ago.
